

One idea. Three directions.

A small, controlled test for your next AI video. Change the mood, then decide what deserves another take.

01 / KEEP THE SCENE FIXED

A small glass city beside calm water. The camera slowly moves forward. One continuous shot. No people. No on-screen text.

02 / ADD ONE LIGHTING DIRECTION

A

WARM SUNRISE

Warm sunrise, soft amber reflections, gentle mist above the water.

B

BLUE HOUR

Cool blue-hour light, pale cyan reflections, a quiet evening atmosphere.

C

PINK FANTASY

Soft pink clouds, rosy reflections, a luminous dreamlike atmosphere.

03 / MAKE A FAIR COMPARISON

Keep the settings stable. Use the same model, supported format and duration. Keep the seed fixed if that control is available.

Start with one short request. Review it before deciding whether to generate B or C. Three directions are options, not a required purchase.

Change only one thing. Add one lighting line to the base prompt. If the camera or subject fails, simplify the prompt before testing another mood.

Before generating: check the current tool, input support, length and credit cost in Studio. This is a prompt exercise, not a tested output guarantee. The worksheet is free; generation costs are separate.

Choose the keeper.

Judge the finished result, then count the full cost of getting there. A technically completed clip may still miss your creative brief.

SCENE / PROJECT _____

MODEL + FORMAT _____

SPENDING LIMIT _____ credits for this test

CHECK	A	B	C
Subject stays recognizable	☐	☐	☐
Camera follows the intended move	☐	☐	☐
Lighting matches the chosen mood	☐	☐	☐
Motion is clean enough to use	☐	☐	☐
A usable section is worth keeping	☐	☐	☐

Tick what passes; leave a box empty if it needs another take.

COUNT EVERY PAID ATTEMPT

Total credits used = all charged attempts for this scene, less confirmed credit restorations. Count creative retries too.

Requests: _____ Credits used: _____ Keepers: _____

Next decision: use the keeper, make one specific adjustment, or stop. If an output looks wrong, note the exact issue before spending again.

Explore Studio: seedancecheap.com
One-time credits. No subscription. Read the current options and costs before purchase.